A Statewide Day of Giving
Our 2020 Report to the Community

OVERVIEW

After nearly a year of planning, who would have thought the first 401Gives would kick off in the midst of a global pandemic? At 6am on April 1, 2020, United Way of Rhode Island launched Rhode Island’s first 401Gives campaign, a statewide day of giving.

With an ambitious goal of $1 million, 401Gives (a nod to the date and RI’s beloved area code) raised $1,310,480 for 366 nonprofits from 7,545 generous donors who made 13,377 gifts.

Modeled after other giving days across the country, and riding the wave of 2018’s RI Gives Day, this digital fundraising campaign is designed to bring a collective voice to the nonprofit sector and deepen the state’s culture of giving through a single call to action.

This giving challenge combines a state-of-the-art platform with a sophisticated media strategy and community partnerships to highlight the impact of Rhode Island’s nonprofit sector, which accounts for 18% of the state’s workforce.

Powered by United Way of Rhode Island and sponsored by FM Global and Blue Cross Blue Shield of Rhode Island, along with a $50,000 matching dollars provided by Rhode Island Foundation and a $5,000 match from Lorne Adrian of Zenovation, 401Gives was off to a great start even before April 1. In addition, Centreville Bank, Cox Communications, Oak Street Health, and National Grid came on board as monetary prize sponsors while Brave River Solutions, Citrin Cooperman, and Otraway provided in-kind services to the prize pool that was a critical tool in activating nonprofit’s efforts.

In response to the health crisis, United Way added a last minute option for donors to include a gift in their “gift basket” in support of the Covid-19 Relief Fund, which resulted in an additional $109,000 to help area nonprofits affected by Covid-19.

The inaugural 401Gives was a success because of everyone involved. The sponsors, advisory council, community leaders, media partners, social media followers, the nonprofits that work hard every day and of course all the generous donors that gave on April 1 to make a difference in our community.

“We know that Rhode Islanders want to help their neighbors – in a state as small as ours, we are all interconnected,” says Cortney Nicolato, United Way of Rhode Island’s president and CEO. "But knowing where or how to help isn’t always easy. 401Gives puts the opportunity to help right at our fingertips. It’s more than a day, it’s a movement."

Participant Feedback

401GIVES NONPROFIT PARTICIPANTS SHARE
What 401Gives nonprofit participants shared about their 401Gives experience:

“These dollars will help us stay open during the coronavirus. All of our in person events have been canceled. We could not survive without this funding. We look forward to being able to see our clients and volunteers again once this is over.”

“The Providence Singers will be using the money raised to make our archival recordings available online, bringing great choral music to listeners and additional payments to the musicians who performed with us.”

“Business Innovation Factory is incredible grateful for all donations received during 401Gives. We had a strong response and every dollar will go toward supporting our new program LunaYou: A Maternal Wellbeing Program. Pregnancy isn’t easy and Covid-19 just made it a lot harder. It is important now more than ever to provide wellbeing support during this magical time of pregnancy in contrast with this overwhelming pandemic crisis. The donations raised via 401Gives will help us help others.”

“The dollars raised for the College Crusade on 401Gives Day will directly benefit our students who are low-income, first-generation. While many students have been able to settle into distance learning quite easily, our students play a greater economic role in their families and have experienced barriers to their educational success. How do you focus on your courses when you are worried about your family keeping a roof over your head, or being able to buy groceries or pay utility bills? The dollars we raised on 401Gives Day will provide small grants to help our college students overcome these barriers so that they can stay on track to graduate.”

“My organization, HopeHealth Hospice & Palliative Care is using the funds to support patients and families through hospice care. With restrictions placed in response to the Covid-19 coronavirus response, patients and families are separated at a very difficult time. Imagine if your parent or spouse were failing and you were unable to visit them or be with them? Our teams of nurses, hospice aides, social workers, chaplains and grief support counselors are using all of their tools to support our patients and families through this time.”

“The money that was raised during 401Gives strengthens the Domestic Violence Resource Center of South County’s basic needs response program right now during the Coronavirus shutdown that is severely affecting victims of domestic violence. At times like these, the HOME may not necessarily be a safe place for a victim to be and any way that we can alleviate stresses in the lives of clients is important.”
